This is the fifth year of the college. The first graduation exercises were held in 1936 for three. Last June there were eight. This year there are thirteen. The college enrollment has increased with the graduating classes. This year's enrollment was 75. The students are putting out a small printed year-book this year for the first time, various clubs have been formed, and the feeling of friendliness and cooperation among the students has made this the best year of the college.

N.B. Mr. Pennick: This is badly worded, I know, but I have only tried to jot down a few hasty notes. I hope we may have a nice front-page write-up in Sunday morning's paper.

Thanks
